FRENCH CHILDREN WAVE AT U. S. SOLDIER LADS AS AMERICAN BOYS LEAVE CANTONMENT FOR FRONT

French children waving at U. S. troops, above, and view from hillside showing cantonment of American troops in France.

The little French children have learned to love the American troopers in France the way they do their own brothers and fathers fighting for them. The upper picture shows how the French children flock to the roadside and cheer the U. S. boys going through a village on their way to the front. The lower picture gives a good idea of the country where the American lads are getting their final training in France before going to the front. The picture, taken from a hillside, shows a U. S. army cantonment in the distance.

War Savings Stamps

War Savings Stamps are a direct loan to Uncle Sam. Nothing can lessen their value. They're always at par. They pay you well, though that isn't half so important to you as what money does for our soldiers "over there." Back them up. Keep food going to them. Keep their clips full of cartridges. And shoes on their feet.

Boys, get out and sell W. S. S.—and send our soldiers over the top with the go-get-'em feeling that comes from knowing you will see that they get what is coming to them.

War Savings Stamps cost $4.17 each on June 28—and pay back $5.00

Thirty-Six Years Without Loss to Any Investor

THIS is the record of S. W. Straus & Co., a house which was founded in Chicago in 1882 and which has since become a national institution, known from coast to coast for the absolute safety of its investments, no client ever having lost a dollar of interest or principal in bonds purchased from us.

The growth of S. W. Straus & Co. has been due to the safety and stability of the securities we sell—first mortgage 6% bonds and to the protection we have given to the funds of our clients at all times and under all circumstances.

Before you invest your savings the first thing you should do is to satisfy yourself that the investment banker you select to guide you is responsible, experienced and reliable. This is more important than anything else.

You Can Invest $100 to $1000 to Net 6%

S. W. Straus & Co. for 36 years has invested hundreds of millions of dollars for its clients without the loss of a dollar to any investor. Think what this record means to you.

It is because of this record that banks, insurance companies, and trustees of the most sacred funds in the world—bequests to widows, orphans, hospitals, churches and colleges—invest in First Mortgage 6% Bonds safeguarded under the Straus Plan.

Surely their example and judgment are worth following.

Write today for our book, "6% On Your Savings With Safety." It tells you how to invest your money where there can be no danger of loss. It explains the Straus Plan, and tells how to safeguard investments. It describes the First Mortgage 6% Bonds we offer—tested, tried and sound. They can be bought in amounts of $100, $500 and $1,000.

ACCURACY DEMANDED.

Now that it is officially announced that the Thirty-second division of the American Expeditionary Force in France is engaged on the battle line let us have absolute accuracy as to the real results. There are too many stock county boys in that line of battle now for anyone to breathe easily until we know facts. The United States government is gradually evolving order out of chaos in the news department of which it is the duty of the public and we may expect some genuine news in which we are vitally interested.

The war is not three thousand miles away now; it is right here at home in Rock county and every home that displays a flag for a boy in foreign service is anxiously waiting for some definite word of their own individual hero known to be fighting for the democracy of the world. The Gazette, through the Associated Press news service, supplemented by the International news service and the United Press, gives the readers the real facts twelve hours in advance of any other newspaper that reaches the city. Absolute accuracy of the news furnished by the Associated Press is demanded of every correspondent of this great news gathering association. Facts, not fiction, are sent over the cables from the fighting zone and disseminated throughout the nation by means of the telegraph and telephone communication it maintains with all its members. The news received and published is accurate and can be depended upon and at a time like this it is a relief to know this to be a fact.

Rock county waits for the news of each battle. Our boys are in the thick of it now. Our two national guard companies that so proudly marched from their armories last August at the call of the governor, endured the rigid training at the state camp and later at Camp MacArthur, and then entrained and went across the seas, are now fighting units displaying the spirit of the United States and the loyalty of Wisconsin to the great cause of humanity.

Rock county is proud of its sons and knows that the dispatches that tell day by day of the prowess of the American soldiers will reflect glory upon them. Already the "Huns" have taken their first toll of our boys and have maimed others. If he hard to hear the news, but still we honor them, the living, and reverse the dead. They are our own individual offering to this great war which can end but in a victory for the right.

On land and sea, in the air and even in submarines, as soldiers, marines, sailors, airmen, Rock county daily furnishes its share. Some whose work is so essential to the maintenance of the army preparing for foreign service may never see actual service, but their part is just as important, and when the final count is made they will have played their part like men and be rewarded as such.

ITALY RAMPANT.

If one were to select a new coat of arms for Italy there would be some dominant figure rampant on a shield which would typify the present spirit of the Italian. Centuries ago the Italian people, then the Romans, conquered the world, but like all great empires Rome fell through its own weight, yet the impress it left upon its people and the sacred memories of centuries ago prove, now appear to be rejuvenated. Italy is coming into its own again and best of all is doing so to defeat its own individual enemy of centuries—Austria—when the final count comes.

Poor, unfortunate Austria-Hungary, the dual kingdom, combined into an empire with a nominal head, made up of such a conglomerate people that its nationality is uncertain, torn by internal dissension and yet goaded on by Prussianism, which represents Germanism. "Hunism if you please"—they are one of the victims of this war. In the end they will lose their actual identity and the nations, the petty kingdoms they have swallowed up, will be free and independent and Italy will have added the oppressed in the ultimate victory.

The great drive in the west front broke against the allied lines. The Americans stood firm—the men from across the sea—actually stemmed the tide of victory for the on-rushing "Huns" and now in Italy the allies again stand firm and the Austrian millions are curling up and recoiling despite the whips of their "Russian" delvers to goad them on. The old spirit that made Rome the mistress of the world has been awakened. Italy and today this kingdom is "rampant" and will remain so.

Next we learn that the United States plans to send four or five divisions to Italy and under command of General Leonard Wood. All hail to Wood and all credit due to the men who insisted that this fighter be given the recognition due him. Wood will insure courage in his men and added courage to the Italians and help win the war. Italy is rampant and make no mistake about it.

PLAYGROUNDS.

The city playgrounds are open for the boys and girls again. That they will be well patronized is without saying, but the instructors must remember they are placed there as leaders of the sports, not as petticoat dragons, to frighten the youngsters. Where Victor Hemming, superintendent of playgrounds for the past two years, had his hold upon the boys and girls, was in the fact he was one of them. Today he is practicing and training to do the world as an airman, and he did throw just as much energy into his study and training as he put into the playground work. He was one of them, first, last and always.

When he came to leave for his call to duty his little playmates, without number, stopped him on the streets, went to bid him farewell, simply because he was their friend and one of them. The present instructors must fill this capacity. They must take part in the games, be the leaders of the sports and inspire the confidence and love and admiration of their charges. If the grounds are to be successful, it is one thing to preside over a school room and exact discipline, and another to be the real friend and confidant of the pupil. These are not school days, but play days, and as play days the playground supervisors must be alert to take part in every activity and yet hold a firm hand and command the admiration and respect of their charges. The work has just begun and may the summer be a profitable one for all concerned.

PAY UP.

If there are any citizens in Rock county who have not paid up their share of the war chest fund assessed by the committee let them do so at once. Milton Junction had one case of this kind and the share was paid after the posts of his stars were painted yellow instead of his person, as was the case of Janesville. No one is immune from this tax upon our pocketbook. "Your Share is Fair" is the best method thus obtained to equalize the taxation burden for various war causes and persons who failed to take advantage of it will suffer personal humiliation, loss of business, being marked as disloyal or some other method but all are advised to pay up and do so promptly. Persons who subscribed and failed to give a bank for paying their share will find their pledges at one of the four banks of the city. If not at one, some of the other three. There is no excuse, not to pay up, and pay up promptly.

In July the four regiments of the Wisconsin State Guard, the citizens' militia of the state, will go into camp at the state reservation. The state almost bankrupted itself in fitting out the former National Guard units, sixteen thousand odd men, equipped with every detail of service requirements, and can not afford to pay these citizen soldiers for their time in camp. The state will pay transportation and furnish food and quarters. It is up to the loyal business men of the state to pay their employees who belong to the various guard units for their time—an additional war tax, if you please—but one essential to the peace and tranquility of the state as a whole. Think it over. The Rock, Green and Jefferson county companies go in July starting the 15th, for seven days—each week. If the men can give the time for good, hard work can not their employers pay them for the week?

Too much care can not be taken to prevent the spreading of false reports as to the loyalty or disloyalty of this or that individual. Stories told in confidence and repeated grow in magnitude and many an honest citizen and loyal American is subject to unjust criticism. Be sure of your facts and if uncertain report your suspicions to the authorities. They will take care of them and the guilty will suffer.

All is not going to be a bed of roses for the aspiring politician this year who seeks public office. Loyalty is the first test and should be the main thing. The state has been misrepresented in Washington too long, so let us have loyal congressmen down there now at least.

While the Thrift Stamp—or, if you please, the War Savings Stamp—sale has been postponed one week, on Friday evening a special meeting will be held at the Myers theatre and all citizens are urged to attend and get their impetus for the coming drive.

Rome was not built in a day, nor will the new factory be constructed like Aladdin's wonderful lamp by Genil in a night, but it is coming and the real estate transfers show a healthy growth in the past few weeks, and every citizen of Janesville is on edge for the expected.

WHO'S WHO in the Dax's News

HENRY FORD.

An action unparalleled in Michigan politics was taken recently when Henry Ford, a republican, was endorsed for the nomination for United States senator by the democrats of that state. In the world of material things Ford is known as the head of the greatest automobile man ufacturing concern in existence—as a practical business man, an inventor and, above all, the man who pays the third largest income tax.

He was born in Greenfield, Mich., July 30, 1863. He was a country boy with a marvelous ability in constructing waterwheels and mechanical devices. He received a country school education which he abandoned in favor of driving a threshing machine. He went to Detroit with his parents in 1887 and learned the machinist's trade.

He started his career with an illuminating company and worked up to the position of chief engineer. Fifteen years ago he organized his famous manufacturing concern and became president. In 1914 he started the world of workers by his profit-sharing plan involving a distribution of $10,000,000 annually to employees. The next year he started the world by chartering a ship and at his own expense conducting a party to Europe with the object of organizing a peace conference to influence the belligerent nations and the war.

In speaking of his prospective plunge into politics, Ford says: "At President Wilson's request, I have decided to accept the nomination for senator from Michigan" if tendered to me. "Realizing there are exceptional opportunities for service to our people during the present and coming re-adjustment, I am ready and willing to do every thing I possibly can to assist our president in this great work." "Every man must expect to make great future sacrifices and be prepared to serve wherever the greatest need exists."

Yes, I like him with dirt on his hands. Last evening he painfully limped up to me. His tale of adventure to tell. He showed me a grim-covered cut on his knee. And told me the place where he fell. His clothing was stained to the color of clay. And he looked to be nobody's lad. But somehow I like to behold him that way. For it spoke of the fun that he'd had.

FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY BIG FEATURE AT APOLLO

James W. Gerard's "Four Years in Germany," which closes its engagement at the Apollo theater this evening, is by far the greatest motion picture that has ever been shown in this city. Packed houses are witnessing the picture at every performance and never before in the history of motion pictures in this city have the audiences given vent to their feelings like they have been doing at the Apollo since the opening show.

The picture is based on facts supplied by James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany from the United States. Throughout the entire picture the one thought that is impressed on the audience is that the Kaiser had his eye on the United States long before we entered the war. Manager Zanias should be given much credit for bringing the picture to this city as it is not only entertaining but instructive and depicts the Kaiser as he really is.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl who has been an orphan since I was a baby. I have never known my father and mother. I have been raised by my mother's friends, and I have been with them ever since. I have been a good girl, and I have been a good friend to my friends. I have been a good girl, and I have been a good friend to my friends. I have been a good girl, and I have been a good friend to my friends.

After meeting you the boy probably felt that he could never love the other girl again. You should not be so sure of your own power. I have been a good girl, and I have been a good friend to my friends. I have been a good girl, and I have been a good friend to my friends. I have been a good girl, and I have been a good friend to my friends.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty-two years old and lately I have been keeping company with a boy. I like to go places with him, but it would be impossible to love him. I think he is in love with me, but I don't know. I don't want to hurt him. I don't want to let him go. I don't want to let him go.

You need not worry about the situation. The boy is sure to find a girl who will love him. I think it is fortunate for you that you have a very young boy to love. I think it is fortunate for you that you have a very young boy to love. I think it is fortunate for you that you have a very young boy to love.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a red-haired girl and I am going to get a new silk suit. I would like to have a new silk suit. I would like to have a new silk suit. I would like to have a new silk suit. I would like to have a new silk suit. I would like to have a new silk suit.

Do not doubt the soldier boy. There are so many reasons why you should love him. I think it is fortunate for you that you have a very young boy to love. I think it is fortunate for you that you have a very young boy to love. I think it is fortunate for you that you have a very young boy to love.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

During the past year I spent some months in the city, a three hour train ride from the nearest city of any size.

Of course a trip to town was a large occasion and when anyone in the village planned to go the fact was usually well known.

Accordingly, I knew a friend of mine planned to go to town one Tuesday. Tuesday came and I met her at the store. "You didn't go?"

"No," she said. "I'm going tomorrow. I found that Mrs. (naming a woman who is an acquaintance, but not a close friend) was going tomorrow, so of course I waited so I could have company."

The well grounded assurance that of course "home" would prefer company on such a ride, even if it were not of the highest quality, is the fact at which I have taken out an lance to tilt.

I don't care for company just for company's sake.

To my mind a ride on the train alone is a treat. Of course I should be glad to have a congenial friend with me, but just as much as anywhere, where, but I would never seek company.

When I have such to make, I look forward to it. Three solid hours all to myself, no interruptions, no actions of any sort. Why it is a veritable treasure.

U. S. A. "Pleased to meet you," cried the old gentleman rabbit, "I have just got to my spectacles."

Some Nuts to Nibble.

I am myself with my knitting bag and with the latest copy of that beloved weekly review which I am always trying to find time to keep up with.

Also, (perhaps it is a plebian confession) I allow myself some chocolate or salted nuts to nibble. My only difficulty is in deciding which I shall do first, watch the people about me, knit, read my weekly, or just sit looking out at the landscape and dreaming.

I once knew a girl who did not care for reading, and who when her work was done could sit down in a chair and look out of the window and think. But I have never been able to do that except in a moving vehicle and so I especially enjoy the pleasing hypothesis the hurrying landscape seems to cast over my mind.

At such times conversation would be an intrusion rather than a pleasure.

A Lot of Fun for the Taking.

I like best to ride on the train but not as anxious to me as they are to some, (provided only I am not required to keep changing). I think the reason that such trips are so very tiring to some people is because they are always straining ahead of their minds and trying to be there instead of attuning themselves to the soothing monotony of the journey.

If you like to read, and like to dream, and don't like to fret, there is a great deal of fun in life that you can have for the taking, isn't there?

DISTRIBUTE CORN TO RELIEVE FOOD CRISIS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Mexico City, June 19.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Nearly a quarter of a million bushels of corn, valued at more than $1,000,000, was distributed in the eight months ending last March, by the Mexican Food Commission to relieve the food crisis that has existed in this republic.

Practical failure of the 1917 corn crop, upon which the greater part of Mexico's 15,000,000 inhabitants depend for sustenance, was the primal factor in the formation of the commission. There was danger of famine in some parts of the country, and it was difficult to transport food to these regions the surplus that was obtained in other parts of Mexico. By its work, the commission averted the threatening famine, established the price of corn, and in a great measure, prevented speculation in it.

After presenting the facts before the counsel general of the United States here, an export permit was obtained from the United States government to cover the importation of 300,000 bushels of corn monthly from December 1, 1917, to the end of 1918. The commission now is endeavoring to secure another similar permit.

The first shipments from the United States, which were bought through a Kansas City firm, were distributed in various cities and towns along the border, where there was a great scarcity, and where the price was exceedingly high. Later the distribution was extended to other parts of the republic, notably to the large mining camps, where the companies, many of them foreign, had stored their surplus and then retailed it at much below cost price to their employees.

Chambers of Commerce, located at or near these points, have either had charge of the distribution. This has been the case of the mining and smelting industry, who benefited greatly by the importation, for there was danger that they might have had to shut down their plants, had the food supply for their employees been exhausted.

Had Sided Up New Playmate.

Dorothy had been next door to play with a little new girl, who proved to be a strenuous playmate. Returning home, she crept wearily into her mother's lap, and, closing her eyes, said, by way of explanation, "I bet Allene is a boy, and her mother just doesn't know it."

CIRCUMVENTED

By TOM MASSON.

It takes all kinds of people to make a world. Some men when their wives leave them improve the occasion to have a high old time. They go out, they talk, and "travel." Others do not. They prefer to stay home quietly and take it easy. They crave that comfortable solitude that is necessary to the best kind of sanity. Whipton belonged to this class.

After bidding his wife good-by at the station he turned back with a fond anticipatory smile and said soulfully to himself: "Now for that quiet hour to myself. Now for that long-looked-forward-to mental repose."

And so he went home and began to make preparations to carry out his program.

"Is there anything," he said to himself, "more delightful than to be absolutely alone?"

He settled back into his easy chair, his book at his elbow, his cigar box at his hand.

Then the telephone bell rang. "Oh, Mr. Whipton," the voice said, "have only just this minute awakened to the fact that Mrs. Whipton has gone off and left you. You must come and dine with us tonight."

"But—"

"Now, don't say anything, but come. I know you haven't any engagement, and I wouldn't think of having you away in that lonesome house for anything. It isn't good, you know, for any man to be alone. Remember, seventh sharp."

"I shall be delighted," said Whipton.

What else could he say? The lady meant well.

He got home at eleven.

The next morning he ran across Crabley.

"Ah, old man, hear your wife's away. Must come and dine with us tonight, oh, nonsense. Know you can't have any engagement. Only too glad to have you. It's the duty of your friends to see you are not lonesome. Besides, we want you. That's right. Six thirty."

"Whipton went. He had to."

"But tomorrow," he said, "I'll fool you."

There was that easy chair; there was that book; there was the quiet evening hour that he so longed for—all in prospect. No one must cheat him out of that.

He sneaked through side streets. He came home early to avoid meeting the "regulars." He told the maid with excellent voice to say to all telephone flippers that he was not at home and wouldn't be.

Then there was a rattle and a snort. Bilkins, in his automobile, was in front. "Hey, there," he shouted just as Whipton was closing the blind. "Glad I caught you. Heard your wife was away. Come, get right in and take a spin, and then come and dine with me. Must do it, old man. Wouldn't have you stay home alone for anything. Give you the 'willies.' Come on, now!"

Whipton gave one last look at his book, his cigar, his easy chair, and followed his friend obediently out to his sporty dragon.

The next day Mrs. Whipton came back.

"Well," said she after the usual greeting, "what did you do?"

"The first night I dined at the Feltons, the second at the Crableys' and last night at the Bilkins'. I could have lunched them all over the head for spilling my solitude."

"Nonsense!" exclaimed Mrs. Whipton. "I told them to look after you."

"You did, did you? Well, didn't you know I was looking forward to having a few precious hours to myself once in a lifetime? Can't you appreciate what this meant to me?"

"Mrs. Whipton was nothing if not up to date."

"Of course I know that you wanted to be alone," she said. "Haven't I noticed the tendency? But you don't get a word of me. Why, if you should be on any length of time I am just as positive as I can be that you would develop into a first-class crank!"

Theosophic Philosophy.

Here is a bit of theosophic philosophy from the Theosophical Path, official magazine of the oriental cult religion:

"Another important element in the production of a state of tranquillity is a firm and constant belief in the efficacy of right motive. A Theosophist believes that good, pure, true thoughts are real powers that must yield their results in peace and harmony; in other words he has faith and believes that it is worth while to follow conscience, for conscience is an inner guide working for our welfare. By accepting and studying the law of Karma, he soon learns to perceive its working in his life and those of his companions; and thus his faith is gradually turned to knowledge. And so he is no longer at odds with destiny, like so many who have no true philosophy of life; for he begins to realize that man makes his own destiny, and that the soul, or real man within, decrees whatever fate is best suited to the real needs of the individual. We must not pass through experiences pleasurable and painful, but our happiness depends on our attitude toward them; and if, instead, of resenting unpleasant circumstances, we accept them as necessary lessons, we can thereby convert them into advantages."

Father Ate It.

The proprietor of a Cleveland meat market sold a nickel's worth of dog meat to a small boy, and the meat was next day by the boy that the meat wasn't good, and that his father couldn't eat it. The butcher is now wondering who eats the meat he sells for dogs.

ART LEAGUE MEMBERS ENTERTAINED AT PICNIC

A delightful one o'clock luncheon was served yesterday to about sixty ladies belonging to the Art League, at the home of Mrs. Wm. H. Hadden on East street. The beautiful lawn with its shrubbery, was thoroughly enjoyed by the ladies in the shade of the grounds, but owing to the pleasant weather the lunch was served on the porch. The day was spent in the company of the members Mrs. A. Albert, Mrs. Dandrick, Mrs. J. Taylor, Mrs. McGowan and Mrs. Hadden.

A program of songs during the afternoon took up time connected with the meeting of the biennial at Hot Springs, Ark., the first part of June. Mrs. J. E. Penber gave a most interesting account of the meeting beginning with a description of Hot Springs, with its picturesque setting in the hills, and its extensive buildings in which to house a convention. She read a poem written by the mayor of Hot Springs, when he welcomed the ladies of the convention to his city. In this he described the boys of the north and of the south, coming together to defend the flag of the country. She mentioned particularly the fact that the Art League had been organized to build a large house for the soldiers in France. A sum of money had been collected for this purpose among the women of the Janesville Art League. Mrs. Penber also gave many valuable hints in the art topics considered by the speakers at the biennial. Dudley Crafts Watson of Milwaukee, being one of these and having a prominent place on the program. Mrs. Ehrhman also read a resume of the convention taken from a whole and mentioned some of the distinguished women who were present. Three new members were taken into the League Mrs. J. F. Fathens, Mrs. T. Wallace and Miss Helen Taylor.

An invitation was extended by Mrs. Hadden to meet at her home another year in June for a picnic. The next meeting of the club will be a July picnic at the home of Mrs. Severin on Wisconsin street. Mrs. Frank Spoon will be at the head of the special committee having the matter in charge.

MORRIS MEESE

When Fred Clarke voluntarily gave up the reins of the Pittsburgh Pirates several years ago after a brilliant career as manager nobody ever dreamed that a "busher" would in major league circles become a name to be remembered in the esteem of the fans.

From Beadek is a bushier. If there ever was one, Jack Hendricks of the Cincinnati Reds, and the White Sox and the Indians when they assumed charge of their clubs, but Beadek, unlike any other, never even had experience as a minor league manager. And today he has had two. Pirates in the first division for the first time in two years, and with prospects of making an interesting race clear up to the October finale.

Beadek is a big league pilot today because he is a man with caution and it doesn't take much of anything else to run anybody's ball club, say what you will about securing the opponent's intention, signal tapping, etc.

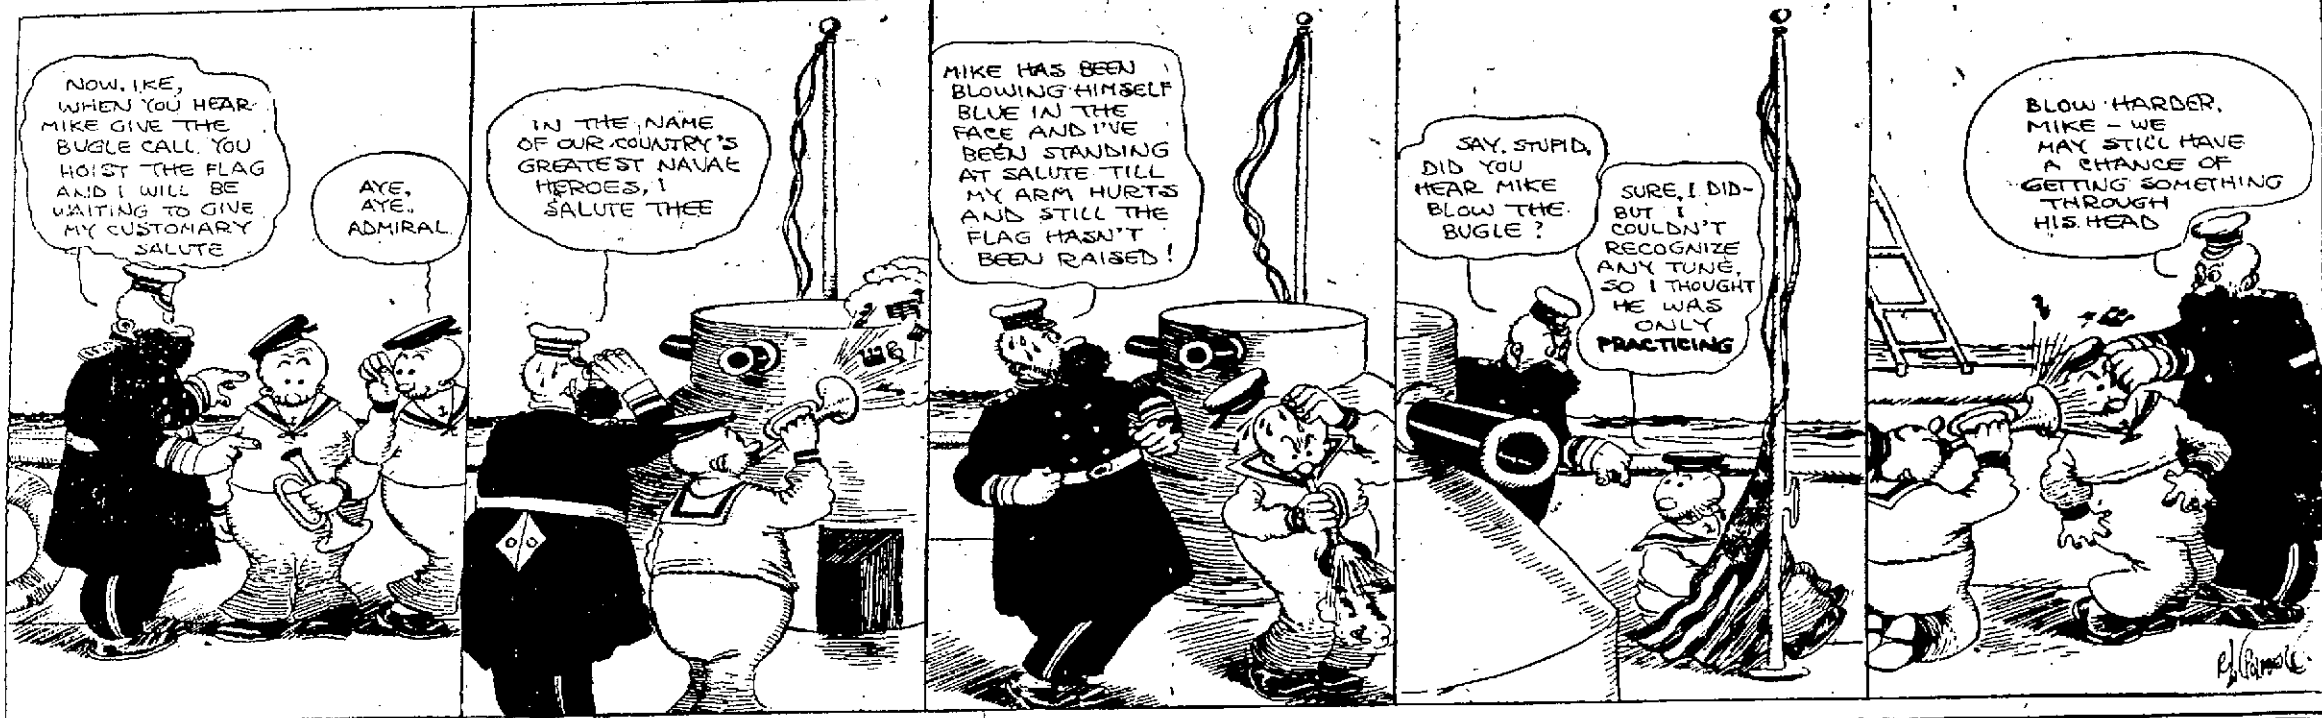

Previous to the time that Barney Dreyfus started the base ball world in looking Jimmy Callahan's son to Beadek, the latter was acting as scout for the Pittsburgh team. Beadek's shrewdness and display of good common sense in handling the problems of this end of the pastime influenced Dreyfus to gamble on him as manager.

Beadek's name, however, is not unknown to the athletic world, particularly the collegiate part. Fifteen years ago he was a star half back on Coach Stagg's famous "Chicago Maroons." This was during the era when old fashioned football prevailed, and games were made solely through hitting, punting, kicking, and the most consistent player on any eleven in the Western conference.

Before coming to the university Beadek had quite a reputation as an amateur pugilist, and at one time it looked as if fate would lead his career into the channels of Flatland. At college, however, he continued to box, and the story has been told that one particular and memorable fight he cleaned up with the whole football training table, when something went wrong.

After his college days were over Beadek went to Eugene, Ore., and helped to develop the athletic stars of State College. Two years later he returned to help Stagg coach Chicago, and then became coach at the University of Arkansas, where he made an enviable record. He is now back to Oregon as athletic director. It's most noteworthy achievement was the defeat of the University of Pennsylvania.

All this while Beadek had been acting as coach for the Pirates, and when Callahan ran the Pittsburgh ship upon the rocks of disaster and discontent, "Busher" Beadek was called upon to render first aid and has been so effective and efficient that he's likely to continue at the helm of the ship for many months to come.

Little George Munroe is dead. All the tight fans knew the fellow who fought Terry McGovern three times. With his smiling face, keen eyes and snow-white hair, George made a picturesque figure. He died in New Haven, Conn., the other day, where he had gone to organize a boxing school. Munroe had one obsession: he thought that his past performance had been forgotten, and toward the end did not hesitate to say that his friends and the boxing public in general looked upon him as a has-been. Nothing was further from the truth.

AMERICAN KILLED GUARDING LONDON

Lieut. Howard Smith.

Lieut. Howard Smith, son of Postmaster and Mrs. Edward Smith of Newcastle, Ind., was killed in London, England, while doing air scout duty, according to word received from the war department. Smith was one of the first graduates from the ground school at the University of Illinois. He then took up training under the British officers at Toronto and was sent to London several weeks ago. Details of the accident have not been learned.

Korean Woman Status.

In Korea women occupy a place in society which has no parallel elsewhere in the Orient. They are both better and worse off than in China or India or Japan—better off because there are more fields open to them, worse because they are overworked, often ill-treated, and until recently were actually enslaved.

An Old Resident.

Tommy, four, was taking his visiting aunt for a walk. She was a little dubious as to where Tommy was leading her, so finally she questioned: "Tommy, are you sure you know where you are going?" Tommy replied, scornfully: "Do you think I've lived four years in this city and don't know my way about yet?"

AERIAL DEFENSE STATIONS TO GUARD COAST LINE;
NEW YORK SHINING MARK FOR HUN PLANE RAID

War Secretary Baker has asked Congress to provide for sixteen aerial defense stations to guard against airplane and submarine attacks by the Germans. Thirteen of them are to be placed along the Atlantic coast line, some near the scenes of the recent raids by the German U-boats. These stations, when built, will furnish better protection to New York, as well as other points along the coast. The metropolis is believed to be the logical place for the Huns to attempt their first air raid, if one is staged. Its great docks and immense buildings form ideal targets. That's why city officials have ordered all brilliant lights dimmed at night.

FARMERS SHOULD BE GIVEN LARGE CREDIT

(By Associated Press.)
Rome, June 19.—The American farmer ought to be given credit on the same basis as the farmer in Europe, without being compelled to mortgage his farm, declares David Lubin, delegate from the United States to the International Institute of Agriculture here.

Mr. Lubin believes that, despite the Federal Land Banks, the American farmer still suffers a great disadvantage in obtaining cash to carry on his business. To remedy this he has formulated a simplified system of farm banking and suggested it to William H. McAdoo, the secretary of the Treasury, and to the American Bankers Association. Herbert Hoover, the farmer at present does business under the stupid and costly system of the mortgage of forty years ago, and Mr. Lubin to the Association of Farmers' Loan and Trusts, which supplies him with loans on long time credit in place of having recourse to the chief banks of the country for cash, whereby to place himself in a cash basis. The farmer is made a member of the money bank, and the storekeepers who sell to him on a credit basis.

"Why can't he have a bank account, that is, credit on open account, like the other business man? He's not a bank, the best security in the world." "The Federal Land Bank has made it possible for him to put up his farm and get money on long time mortgage, but the money is made, however, for and under the farm or making improvements or for paying off old debts. He only a limited number of farms will mortgage unless they have the. The census for 1910 shows that of 3,248,722 farms we have 33.6 percent. mortgaged. What these farmers need together with the other 66.4 percent is credit at the bank instead of the costly, vicious credit at the town store.

"The farmer can be put in a position to pay cash for what he buys, by having the twelve Federal Land Banks increase their functions so that, instead of merely granting mortgage money at a reasonable interest, they may also have a certificate that the farmer is entitled to credit within a fixed sum. This certificate deposited

MASKS SAVE BABES,
SAFS THIS DOCTOR

Dr. Esther Lovejoy.

Dr. Esther Lovejoy, a member of the Medical Women's National Association, spoke at the opening meeting of the American Medical Association recently held in Chicago. Dr. Lovejoy has seen service in France, having worked in the American women's hospital under the Red Cross. Here she is shown holding a child's gas mask like those used by the French children when the Germans send over their poisonous fumes. She is explaining the mask and its use to little Margaret Mine. These masks save the lives of hundreds of children who otherwise would be added to the list of innocent victims of Hun brutality.

KAISER'S PROPAGANDA
UNDER STRICT BAN AT
JANESVILLE LIBRARY

Pro-Hun Literature Barred From Library Shelves; Demand For German Language Books Increasing.

Pro-German propaganda is not, and will not be disseminated through the medium of the Janesville public library books of pro-German origin are conspicuous by their absence there and they will not succeed in gaining any foothold if determined action by the library staff can prevent it. Not a book, not a line of pro-German origin can be found among the thousands of volumes in the building.

What is more this propaganda has not the slightest chance of getting into Janesville's library. Miss Mary A. Egan, city librarian, is on her guard against any literature that smacks of Kaiserism and has decreed that it shall not gain a place on the library shelves. A thorough weeding out of all pro-German books was undertaken some time ago under the direction of Miss Egan. One volume in any way questionable was alone found, entitled "Das Grosse Heilweh," which emphasized the undying devotion of German immigrants to their fatherland, and the book was removed from the shelves.

An attempt made recently to introduce a pro-German magazine into the library was likewise frustrated by Miss Egan, who said that the library staff was always on the lookout to keep enemy propaganda out of the library.

No German language books have been added to the library files for the past three years, and the demand for the few books now in the library is growing smaller. The largest number of German language books drawn from the library in any month this year was during January, when thirty-seven books were taken out. Since then the number has decreased steadily, until last month only thirteen of these books were drawn out. These books go out in the hands of older people, most of them old German settlers, while there is no demand for them whatever from the younger generation, according to the librarian.

What German language books there are in the library are nearly all fiction. Many are by the old classical writers, such as Schiller, Goethe, and Heine, and contain no propaganda. The library now has but four small shelves of these books.

Attention to the use of public libraries for disseminating pro-German propaganda was brought by officials in Chicago the first of this week, when a particularly rabid book by Count Julius Andressy, entitled "The World War," was found and immediately removed from the library shelves. The book lays the blame for the war on about every country but Germany, who is held up as being guiltless. Internment will be the fate of every other book of like nature.

From the Gentle Longfellow.

War is a terrible trade; but in the cause that is righteous, sweet is the smell of powder.—Longfellow.

To Polish Steel.

A finely polished lusterless surface can be produced on steel by rubbing, after tempering, on a smooth iron surface, with some ground oilstone till it is perfectly smooth, after which it should be laid on a sheet of paper and rubbed backward and forward until it acquires a fine dead polish.

PLATINUM IS MOST SOUGHT AFTER METAL

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, June 19.—New chapters in the romance of platinum, once thrown away as wastes, but now the most sought-after metal in the world, have been written since the war began. Nations are fighting for it. Women spies and diplomatic agents are playing the game of international intrigue to control it. As it is known to geologists, so valuable has it become and so necessary to the prosecution of the world war.

The United States government took a hand in the game by commandeering all unworked platinum in this country, setting therefore a price of $105 an ounce, as compared with $22.85 ten years ago. Even this action, however, had not obtained sufficient of the metal for war purposes. Officials who failed to heed the warnings of platinum experts at the beginning of the war, are wondering how they can retrieve their error in not vigorously meeting the national necessity by using every legitimate means to obtain platinum.

For the amount of known platinum throughout the world is only 4,000,000 ounces, of which about one-fourth is in the United States. Much of that is virtually irreclaimable through use in dental work and personal jewelry, and the output, since the ussian debacle, has fallen to a fraction of what it was in times of peace.

It is the last reason which is giving officials so much concern. Russia has been the source of most of the world's platinum and, in 1913, was credited with a production of 250,000 Troy ounces, Columbia with 15,000, New South Wales and Tasmania 1,275, United States (California and Oregon being almost the only producing states) only 433, Borneo and Sumatra 290 and Canada 50.

The German invasion of Russia gave the enemy the opportunity of replenishing its stocks of platinum, to the detriment of the Allies. Mining in Russia virtually has ceased now, even if the metal could be shipped out of the country, and the world looks to Columbia for platinum. Suggestions for a government monopoly of platinum have been advanced in Cuban congress. Whatever action is taken, for fortunes of war will mean wealth for the southern republic.

New Second Class Postal Rates Effective July 1, 1918.—
Gazette Mail Rate Increased From $5.00 to $6.00 Per Year.

The much talked of Zone Rate Law for newspapers and periodicals, which was passed in October, 1917, becomes effective July 1, 1918, and postal rates from that time on will be regulated by the Zone in which the subscriber lives from the point of publication. That part of the newspaper containing reading matter the rate will be increased from 1c to 1½c per pound. This rate will also cover both news and advertising sections in the first and second zones. In the third zone however, the advertising section will be chargeable at 1½c per pound; the fourth, 2c; the fifth, 2½c; the sixth, 3½c; the seventh, 4c, and eighth, 5½c per pound. Those are the rates to be in force between July 1, 1918, and July 1, 1919. In the second year the rates increase still further, running from 1½c to 5½c; and the following year or July, 1920, from 1½c to 7½c per pound. The final increase in 1921 makes the first zone 2c and then up to the eighth zone, making the rate 10c per pound.

Publishers are required to separate their publications in mailing in accordance with the zones to which the copies are destined or file estimates showing the number of papers going into the different zones. The new Zone Law will work a number of changes in subscription rates in the outer zones at least. The mail subscription rate for the Gazette going out in single wrappers will be increased at once from $5.00 to $6.00 per year.

PASTE the KAISER WITH
W. S. S.
ON June 28th

Paste him in the eye with a War Savings Stamp—then paste him again and again. Don't think that you have already done your duty. Pershing's men "over there" don't go home after their first battle—they go after the Huns again—they keep on pasting the Kaiser.

Your government has officially set—

Friday, June 28th
National War Savings Day

On that day every American is summoned to "sign the pledge"—to invest in a definite amount of War Savings Stamps each month.

Every real American will prove his patriotism by agreeing to regularly paste the Kaiser.
